

adventurous—Learning is cautious and timid—Learning discovers the solidity of truth, and His unveils the beauty of it. Live therefore in unity and peace, and while Learning guides her Wit protects the former will teach Mischief to spend its aversion on proper objects, and the latter leads its assistance to expose vice to derision. It is the business of your Safety to court Prudence; for she will teach you only safety. And that your union may be perfect, my direction and command to you is, that you instantly quit under the banner of Hygiea, and that your capitals be celebrated in the temple of Concord. A general audience finished their connoisseances, and they all proceeded to the temple of Concord, where numberless trains of horses and grace banqueted together in unity and love.

The writer in our late Advertiser has made up his mind to leave the Advertiser, to preserve a consistency in the general idea.

LONDON, March 5.

This morning some dispatches were received from Gibraltar, which were brought over in a brig arrived at one of the western ports; a few letters were also brought over, which contain advices that the Emperor of Morocco is fitting out his whole naval forces; and that provision-vessels are sailing almost daily for Constantinople to the relief of the Turks, who do not find their supplies out of Asia so regular as formerly.

It is thought that Joseph will overturn the third estate, or kingdom of Brabant, which persists in refusing him any supplies. The two first estates have been summoned to particular business, and it is supposed that this is the object of their convocation. This assembly is known to the most scrupulous silence.

MARCH 6.

The King of Sweden has published an Ordinance, ordering four fast days to be held during the present year. The critical situation of affairs has induced his Majesty to judge it necessary. It concludes with the following words, deserving of being handed down to posterity, for their dignity of sentiment and patriotic worth:

" May a pure and sincere affection for our country, strengthen those ties of friendship, which binds us to you, and to one another! Meeting is this short, terrestrial and laborious life; and with it vanishes that inequality of rank, which Providence has placed between us."

On Tuesday a most brilliant illumination was set up at Kew by the command of her Majesty. It was a most superb picture, representing a figure of Eulalia presiding a medallion of the King to Britain, by the desire of Providence, who was seated on the clouds, accompanied by hosts representing the arts and sciences, the work of Rebecca.

Amidst demonstrations of joy on Tuesday, the King more forcibly spoke the loyalty. And thus the illumination of the King's French each long mounting captive wip'd the earth, and parted with his last penury to speak.

Extract of a letter from Copenhagen, March 3. An attempt has been made here to burn the Russian fleet by an incendiary, one Capt. O'Brien, from Orlens, whose ship lying amongst them, fast in the ice, had been planned to set on fire, that a general conflagration might ensue. Providentially it has been discovered in time; for, if it had succeeded, his town would have been blown up by the large quantity of gunpowder on board the Russian men of war. He had been hired by a Swedish emissary, and was to have received 1000 dollars per month.

The slave trade, and the rest etc., are again to be agitated in the course of this session.

The Herald of yesterday, though it loudly proclaims the preceding day, that the King was incapable of holding the sceptre, and fill as bad as he was in the height of his disorder, has thought proper to discontinue that REBELLIOUS theme, and give the lie to its own assertions.

MARCH 12.

We are desired to mention by way of caution, that judges have given it as their opinion, that it is DASON to assert either orally or in print, that the mind is deranged, or that he is not in a capacity to act as Sovereign of the British Empire.

The Herald was burned on Tuesday at New-Lloyd's and Will's Coffee-houses at the Change, for the treasonable matter it contained on Saturday last; and the apology on Tuesday needs no further comment, and they ought to be burned by Jack Ketch, they speak for themselves. We have told the public before they announced it, that the Printer, hearing the just remonstrance of government, intended to visit Ireland, and send his paper to his.

Admiral Sir Charles Douglas fell down dead, in a fit of apoplexy, as he was entering the Assembly room at Edinburgh, a few days since. The purpose of his journey to Scotland, was to leave his friends, but was fitfully fitted up for the approaching solemnity.

Mr. Hastings's trial is to be resumed on the 16th of April next.

His Majesty with that strong sense of religion which has always marked his character, wishes that his first appearance in public among his subjects, may be on the day of general thanksgiving; when he will go to St. Paul's Church to offer his thanks to the power that has restored him. That beautiful Cathedral will be suitably fitted up for the approaching solemnity.
