The external view exhibited an appearance, which to one anadquainted with productions of this nature, was truly extraordinary:—It had two heads perfectly well formed, covered with very black hair, in greater quantity than should with his minter at the time, of the birth, of the parts, from those of a well resized new born in-fant; the lower extremities were ingle and perfect in appearance, and there was a ingle Funis.

The appearances on distriction were not lefs extraor-dinary than those exhibited on an external view. On removing the integements one Stretum only was dis-covered, and which had no other oncommon appearance, covered, and which had no other uncommon appearance, than that it was much broader than ulual, was indented in the midule, and wanted the Xipboid Cartilage; it was articulated on each fide by the intervention of the Cartilages to the ribs, which were perfect in number, and fent off from two spines. These spines were ferarate and diffinet from their origin at the neck t feparate and diffinct from their origin at the access to fluid retremities Addid not terminate in any thing like an OSS-crum or Cocygis, both of which were chirely wanting. The flernom being removed on the full view of the contents of the thorax, there termed to be only the Vicera of on individual, but on opening the Pericardhum, which was fingle, it was found to contain two hearts, which was fingle, it was found to contain two hearts, one of them of a proper form and fize, having it as acticles, ventricles, and veffels in a perfect flate, the other finaller and imperfect, its arterial veffels were finally and contracted, and the left surfice and pulmonary vein were warning. It was at fint conceived that the lungs conflict of only one pair, as each lobe had the pulmonary artery from a duffined heart, but upon a further extenination, two other lobes were differently flusted. under the first, they were finall, compressed, and i.s a very imperfect state, and appeared to want the proper very imperted tate, and appeared to want the proper verifils.

On opening the cavity of the Abdomen, the first object which prefent at itself was a liver of a very uncommon fize and thare, firstehing from fiders fide, fo as to fill both the Hypochondria: it appeared to be double, possibility over a consenty of the liver on each fide, from each filment the liver was fround two difficient damach, from each filmenth preceded a diffinith Daudenoun, into each of which the Daclus Communis on each file, from each filmenth preceded a diffinith Daudenoun, into each of which the Daclus Communis on each file opened in elfi in the usual manner; the intellines were double & diffinith, and united by a leparate Mesenary to each filmenth of the light o denum Jennum, and more than two durings of the um, they then entited jin their progress, an inch or two further they feemed only finishly to again, and the fuddenly inoccutating they became only gut, and con-tinued in that flare till the Rectum tertimated in the thrused in that hate in the Action relations of the Anus. There were two fpleens, one financed under each flormed—the Omentum w.s. finall and finivelled, and it could not be discovered if it was originally dogand it could not be differented lift was originally doulet. The kidners were double—one pair were perfect, cach had its Uretter, which opened in the tifual manner into the bladder; the other pair were finall, comprefied and imperfect, the Ureters being wanting. The bladder was fingle and in every respect perfect; the pelvia in which the bladder, oce, were placed, was formed by a union of the two fpines at the last two Vertebras, & the Offa Insuminars; the Pubis was finall and not perfectly formed, and the Os Sacrum and Cyceygis, as has been already observed, were wanting. On a further examination it was differented that each Trachen was effected to a diffined tologous for the lugars, and each Cefoeffectly and a diffined tologous perfectly and each Cefoeffectly and diffined tologous perfectly and each Cefoexamination it was diffeovered that each Trachen was effixed to a diffired lobe of the langs, and each Oeforegue opened into a diffinite flormach. This creature had the genital parts of an individual female. The throng of people whom curiofity had brought to view this production, rendered a more minute infection impracticable, but the appearances already deferibled, were the principal which were observed, or which it is meetifary to mention—to enter into a general confideration of the subject of months, and the contractivities which have agreed the leatined with respectively, one could it convey any new information to professional men, for whom this history it principally intended; it will therefore fusine to observe, that cafes of this sature are by no means new or very uncommon. of this nature are by no means new or very uncommon. BLANE ite JUDICIARY BILL continued from

MR. JACKSON: I rife, Sir, on what I conceived the most important fulgion; which has yet come letter this hone; it is such a lawer long considered, is with finely have decided, but on mature confideration, an imprefed with the fame feeltiments, with the gentlesses from New Hamphire. It must be admirted, the season from New Hamphire. the from New Lamphile. It must be admired, in fociety was fornest before the rules which gormed that fociety, and therefore the laws and rules tere formed merely for the convenience of that focity. In fast the conveniency of the people is, or ought be the first privilege of every government; and the rupe have a rightto expect it. Our prefent configmion has fot out a ith this declaration, "We the Peopope nave a right to expect it. Our pretent config-ment has feel out afth this declaration, "We the Pea-he." In its premable; and therefore in the 15 tem be-liers, every attention of the Legislature ought to be there to this point. Sir, I apprehend that the fyliest effer us is not framed, or calculated for that purpose; the metri insended to define you found to the med tails. Be and important privileges of the citizens. I do not the in dimposit here the powers in the facility of the h to diminish from the powers in the rederal judi-ry, which may be need flary and commenturate to or, smell did to section and contentions to carrying the government fully into execution; but mader the fylian unnecessary, retailous, and en-give, and calculated to defrey the harmony and

Can they not, rewrife, or courant the State de-crets as they may find them right or wrong 3-- The then does this last argument fall to the ground: Sir: What the figures we entited can be cally prov-ed, and is two obvious. An offender is dragged from his home, his friends, and councilions, so 2 dillatic

An otherpier is dragged from his home, his friends, and connections, to a difficult floor, where he is deprived of every advances of formstebarders, of relations, and amunitanese. But by the gendenant's idea, it is to the left to the determination of an authority which acts indicated the control of the flat legislation.—He also adverted to the conduct of the flat legislation.
