AN ODE.

FOR lack of Cash to what a fount, Incidentally we hear;

As ev'ry place the people meet, For Cash they all lament;

There's none but doth complain; Through ev'ry street we hear the found,

And ever since it hath not ceased, But daily hath decr'd;

And now that little doth remain, 'Tis taking wings to flee.

Will not the merchants laugh and say, 'Tis quite welcome, now begin,

'Tis quite welcome, now begin, Now see your cash have got away,

'Tis quite welcome, now begin, 'Tis quite welcome, now begin,

'Tis quite welcome, now begin, 'Tis quite welcome, now begin,

'Tis quite welcome, now begin, 'Tis quite welcome, now begin,

'Tis quite welcome, now begin, 'Tis quite welcome, now begin,

'Tis quite welcome, now begin, 'Tis quite welcome, now begin,

'Tis quite welcome, now begin, 'Tis quite welcome, now begin,

'Tis quite welcome, now begin, 'Tis quite welcome, now begin,

'Tis quite welcome, now begin, 'Tis quite welcome, now begin,

'Tis quite welcome, now begin, 'Tis quite welcome, now begin,

'Tis quite welcome, now begin, 'Tis quite welcome, now begin,

'Tis quite welcome, now begin, 'Tis quite welcome, now begin,

'Tis quite welcome, now begin, 'Tis quite welcome, now begin,

'Tis quite welcome, now begin, 'Tis quite welcome, now begin,

'Tis quite welcome, now begin, 'Tis quite welcome, now begin,

'Tis quite welcome, now begin, 'Tis quite welcome, now begin,

'Tis quite welcome, now begin, 'Tis quite welcome, now begin,

cuts always said, According to thy faith, so be it done unto thee.

Hearing much said about him, a friend of mine (who is a general officer and a man of very deep learning) and I agreed to go and pay him a visit, at a time when he was most disengaged from his patients.

I put several questions to him respecting animal magnetism, the Cibabab—the occult sciences, and Swedenborg—to all which he answered satisfactorily.

In short, every thing he said was to my mind to true that I could subscribe to it fully. My friend was equally satisfied with the answers to his questions, which were deep and learned.

This talk Mr. de Louthembourg, and his cure seem to confirm his assertions. But it is right to mention to you certain grounds I have for doubting of him.

I have seen in France almost similar effects produced by animal magnetism of the higher kind; having during my tour through that country been introduced into some secret societies where these things are frequent.

In short, I have never heard of any one instance where he has said to the patient, In the name of Jesus be thou healed—and as to speaking sublime truths, we well know that words may be arranged in the forms, of celestial truths, and spoken by Satan himself, who can clothe himself in all the deceivableness of unrighteousness.

THE love of fame not only prevails as universally, as any other passion, but its effects are stronger and more conspicuous, than can be produced by any other motive. An ambitious man may be active and diligent in his pursuits; but when money is the main object of his exertions, he will bear few inconveniences, and run few risks compared with what will be cheerfully undergone by those, whose love of applause dictates.

It is now more than 60 years since I left Boston, but I never forgot my father and grandfather; having heard them both in the pulpit, and seen them in their houses. The last time I saw my father was in the beginning of 1774, when I visited him after my first trip to Pennsylvania.

Let us prefer our reputation by performing our engagements, our credit, by fulfilling our contracts; and our friends, by gratitude and kindness, for we know as how soon we may again have occasion for all of them.

LETTER from Dr. Franklin to the late Dr. Mather, of Boston. RECEIVED your kind letter, with your excellent advice to the people of the United States, which I read with great pleasure, and hope it will be duly regarded.

Let us prefer our reputation by performing our engagements, our credit, by fulfilling our contracts; and our friends, by gratitude and kindness, for we know as how soon we may again have occasion for all of them.
