

VERSES,
Said to be written by a Negro Girl, on her lover who was drowned in her sight.
POOR OAK tink on YANKO dear,
Tho' he be gone forever;
For he no dead, he fill live here;
And he from her go never.

Like on de fand me mark him face,
The ware come roll him over,
The mark he go; but fill the place
This easy to dislocate.

Melee, sometime, de tree, de flower,
He droop like Ora, farely;
And den, bye-bye, dere come a flower,
He hold him head up pardy;

And fo sometime me tink me die,
My heart lo fick he grive me;
But in a little time me cry
Good-deal, and dat relieve me.
Her byes.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Treasury-Office, Boston, December 1, 1790.
THE COLLECTORS OF TAX No. 6 will please to take Notice, that the Hon. Legislature, have repeatedly Resolved, That it is of the Greatest consequence, that Tax No. 6 should be collected with all possible expedition, and directed the Treasurer to take effectual measures for the speedy enforcing the Collection thereof.

THESE are therefore, to notify the Collectors of said Tax, that unless they pay their Balances into the Treasury, on or before the first Day of February next, Executions will be issued against them therefor.

The Collectors of No. 7. Tax, are also requested to exert themselves, in collecting and paying said Tax, and thereby prevent Executions being issued against them: For the information of the Selectmen and Assessors of the several Towns, and at the same time requesting their aid, should it be found necessary, the Treasurer here inserts an Extract of an Act passed 23d March, 1784.

Extra of an Act passed the 23d of March, 1784.
"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That the several Collectors of public Taxes shall, once in every two months at least, exhibit to the Selectmen, and where there are no Selectmen, to the Assessors of the respective Towns or plantations to which they belong, a just and true account of all the Monies they have received on the several Taxes committed to them, and produce the Treasurer's receipts for all the Monies they have respectively paid into the Treasury."

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any Collector of public Taxes, shall neglect to exhibit his Accounts in manner aforesaid, he shall forfeit and pay for every neglect, the sum of two and a half per cent. on the sum or sums, committed to him to collect, to the use of the Town or Plantation of which he is, or has been a Collector, to be recovered by such Town or Plantation, in any Court of Law proper to try the same."

ALEX. HODGDON, Treasurer.
PRODUCE is plenty.
Pay your Debts and save Cost.
THOSE debts due to DAVENPORT & M'LEAN, contracted at Northampton, previous to the first day of April last, will positively be put in suit without further notice, unless paid by the first day of January next.
By order of Mess. Davenport & M'Lean.
N. BLAKE.
Northampton, Nov. 1790.

STRAYED away from the Subscriber, sometime last Summer, a red heifer—two years old last spring, marked with a half penny cut the upper side of the near ear; whoever has said heifer in keeping, and will give information thereof to the subscriber, shall be handsomely rewarded.
BENJAMIN CLARK.
Northampton, December 10, 1790.

THE SUBSCRIBERS FOR KNOX'S MISCELLANY.
are desired to call for their Books.

MASSACHUSETTS MONTHLY STATE LOTTERY.
CLASS THE SEVENTH.
SCHEME
OF THE SEVENTH CLASS OF THE MASSACHUSETTS MONTHLY STATE LOTTERY.
5000 TICKETS, at TWO DOLLARS each.

Prizes.	of	Dollars.	is	Dollars.
1	1	1000	1	1000
	1	200	1	200
	10	100	10	1000
	10	50	10	500
	10	20	10	200
	10	10	10	100
	20	5	10	50
	100	2	10	200
1492	1	1	10	1492

1669 Prizes. 10000
5331 Blanks. Deduction, 1414

THE above Clafs will commence drawing, on or before THURSDAY the 13th of January next. The TICKETS in the above Clafs may be had of the several Managers of JAMES WHITE, Franklin's Head, Court-Street, and of the Treasurer of the Commonwealth, each of whom will pay the Prizes on Demand.

BENJAMIN AUSTIN, JUN.
DAVID COBB,
SAMUEL COPPER,
GEORGE R. MINOT,
JOHN KNEELAND, Managers.

Boston, Dec. 2, 1790.

FURRS.
CASH, and a generous price given for all kinds of SHIPPING FURRS, by ROBERT BRECK & SON.
Northampton, Dec. 6, 1790.

Sleigh Bells & Harness Buckles.
Also, all kinds of Silver Shoe and Knee Buckles, Plated, do.—Pinchback, do. &c.—Crucibles—Chaps and Tongues, and all kinds of work in the Goldsmith's Business, may be had of the subscriber, who wants to purchase old Silver, Copper and Brass, for which good pay will be made.—He also wants an Apprentice at the above business.—Enquire of
J. H. BRECK.
Northampton, Dec. 8, 1790.

TO BE SOLD AT PUBLIC AUCTION,
AT the house of Mr. Jonathan Clapp, inholder in Easthampton, on Thursday the 23d day of December inst. at one o'clock P. M. a piece of pieces of LAND, belonging to said district of Easthampton, containing 50 acres, being part of the original forty rod highway, that lies between Easthampton meeting-house and Capt. Lemuel Pomeroy's farm, adjoining on the west end of the moontain division.
DAVID LYMAN, Chairman of the Committee.
Easthampton, December 6, 1790.

STRAYED from the subscriber, last June, two reading SIEARS, one a dark brown, the other red and white, both marked with a slit in the left ear. Whoever will take up said creatures, or give information where they may be had, shall be handsomely rewarded, by ISAIAH BROWN.
Whately, December 2, 1790.

STRAYED or Stolen from the subscriber, the 22d of Sept. last, a dark brown MARE, with a forest horse COLT—the mare a natural trotter, manes on both sides of the neck, large mane and tail, three years old past—the colt has a star in the forehead, spars and canters, was folded in July last. Whoever will take up said Mare and Colt, and return them to the subscriber in Worthington, shall have Three Dollars reward, and necessary charges paid, by SYLVANUS PARSONS.
Worthington, Dec. 3, 1790.

Hudson and GOODWIN.
Have for sale, near the Bridge HAZARD, CLOTHIERS Preff Papers, by the gross or dozen; Cartridge Paper, by the Ream or Quire; Bonnet Paper by the gross or dozen; Wrapping Paper, by the Ream; all parts of Welcher's Institute, in large or small quantities; Writing Paper by the Ream; Marble Paper; Account Books of various sizes; Wafers, Sealing Wax, &c. &c.

N. BLAKE & Co.
Will pay Cash for ASHES if delivered at the Pot-ash Manufactory in Northampton, any time this winter. They will likewise pay cash for Good well Dried and cleaned Hops, if delivered at their store in Northampton any time previous to the 22d of the present month.
Dec. 15, 1790.

BROKE into the inclosure of the Subscriber, on the 6th inst. two young horses, one a dark bay, the other a foal; the owner is desired to prove property, pay charges, and take them away.
ELIAS LYMAN.
Northampton, Dec. 15, 1790.

NOTICE is hereby given to the non-resident proprietors of unimproved lands lying in the towns of several towns are taxed in tax No. 1 and No. 2, and in town N. and Minister laws for 1782, and also to taxes due were in the year 1778 and 1779, to state, Town and Minister, as follows:

Lot No. 46 laid to Noah Baker, 1 1 d. 0
Lot No. 91 laid to Col. Hindsdale, 1 2 3 1
Lot No. 83 laid to J. Atherton's heirs, 1 4 4 4
Non-resident land formerly belonging to Shelburne, 0 4 5 4
Lot No. 44 & 75 owned by J. Barnard, 3 7 1 2
Lot No. 70 owned by Nathan Catlin, 0 8 2 1
Lot No. 65 owned by Col. E. Hindsdale, 0 16 11
Lot No. 1 laid to Nathaniel Hawks, 0 2 4 3
Lot No. 3 laid to Thomas Childs, 0 0 2 6
Lot No. 6 laid to Thomas Well's 2d heirs, 0 2 6 1
Lot No. 17 laid to Samuel Belding, 0 8 8 3
Lot No. 18 laid to J. Atherton's heirs, 0 8 1 0
Lot No. 19 laid to Samuel Drexley, 0 8 6 1
Lot No. 20 laid to Capt. T. French, 0 11 10 1
Lot No. 22 laid to Samuel Allen's heirs, 0 0 4 1
Lot No. 23 laid to Oliph & Seth Coit, 0 7 1 1
Lot No. 24 laid to Abner Nings heirs, 0 5 9 0
Lot No. 25 laid to M. & A. Childs, heirs, 0 0 9 0
The following are taxes that were due in the year 1778 & 1779, State, Town and Minister, consolidated into silver as follows, viz:

Lot No. 33 laid to Samuel Hindsdale, 1 3 6 3
Lot No. 34 laid to Samuel Barnard Esq., 0 4 1 3
Lot No. 30 laid to May Weils, 1 13 1 0
Lot No. 30 laid to J. Catlin, own'd by Seth, 2 6 0 0
That unless said taxes are paid on or before Monday, the tenth day of January next, so much of said land will be then sold at public vendue, at the dwelling house of Mr. AARON BILLINGS in Conway, at eight o'clock P. M. as will be sufficient to discharge the same with intervening charges.
ROBERT HAMILTON, Collector.
Conway December 11, 1790.

Levi Shephard,
Has just received a general assortment of all kinds of GOODS
he usually has for sale.—He continues the DUCK MANUFACTORY, and is enlarging his works; it is therefore desired that every person who wishes well to the manufactures of their country, (and all those likewise who have made contracts for flax) would direct their flax in the best manner, and give said Shephard the offer of what they have to part with, who will give them such pay as will be to their satisfaction.
CASH given for BEES-WAX and SHIPPING FURRS, by said Shephard.
December 17, 1790.

JOSEPH CLAPP, JUN.
Has just received a large and general assortment of GOODS, suitable to the season—which he will dispose of as very moderate terms.—He continues to take much kind of Country Produce.
Edamptown, Dec. 16, 1790.

WHEREAS Jessie my wife, did on the evening of the 13th inst. without reason or cause clope from my bed and board.—This is to forbid all persons harboring or trying her on my account, as I will pay no debts of her contracting after the date hereof.
GEORGE MORLEY.
Barnardston, Nov. 12, 1790.

Wanted,
A few Cords of Oak and Hemlock BARK, for which good pay will be made, and a generous price given.
Enquire of the Printer.
Northampton, Dec. 1790.

NOTICE is hereby given to the following non-resident proprietors of land in Shelburne, in the County of Hampshire, that his lands are taxed for the year 1790, in the State tax No. 8, also town and County, 124, on lot No. 21, in the fourth part of Ashburne.
Laid to Samuel Dickinson, 1 3 10 2
UNLESS said taxes are paid on or before the 30th day of January next so much of said lands will be then sold at public vendue at the dwelling house of Lieut. HAZAEL RANSOM in Shelburne at 10 o'clock A. M. as will be sufficient to discharge the same with intervening charges.
JOHN RANSOM, Collector.
Dec. 6, 1790.

BROKE into the inclosure of the Subscriber, some time after the last of October, a reading Hairy red, white face, some white upon her belly, a crop on both ears. The owner is desired to prove property, pay charges and take her away.
JOHN KIRKLAND.
Norwich, Dec. 20, 1790.

MR. Whitman's SERMON preached at the Ordination of Rev. Levi LANTIER, at Alford in New-Hampshire.
The published, and to be sold by the Printer hereof.
ALMANACKS,
For 1792 may be had of the Printer hereof.

PHILADELPHIA, December 12.
YESTERDAY, at 12 o'clock the Senate of the United States attended the President at his own house, and delivered the following ADDRESS:—
To the PRESIDENT of the United States of America.
WE receive, Sir, with paternal satisfaction, the communication contained in your speech, which contains to us the progressive state of the public credit; and afford at the same time, a new proof of the solidity of the foundation on which it rests; and we cheerfully join in the acknowledgments which are due to the probity and patriotism of the mercantile and manufacturing part of our fellow-citizens, whose enlightened attachment to the principles of government is not less conspicuous in this, than it has been in other important respects.

In confidence that every conditional preliminary has been observed, we assure you of our disposition to concur in giving the requisite sanction to the admission of Kentucky, as a distinct member of the Union; in doing which, we shall anticipate the happy effects, to be expected from the permanent and unanimous part of our fellow-citizens, whose enlightened attachment to the principles of government is not less conspicuous in this, than it has been in other important respects.

In confidence that every conditional preliminary has been observed, we assure you of our disposition to concur in giving the requisite sanction to the admission of Kentucky, as a distinct member of the Union; in doing which, we shall anticipate the happy effects, to be expected from the permanent and unanimous part of our fellow-citizens, whose enlightened attachment to the principles of government is not less conspicuous in this, than it has been in other important respects.

We regret that the continuance and increase of the hostilities and deprivations which have distressed our north western frontiers, should have rendered offensive measures necessary, we feel an entire confidence in the sufficiency of the motives which have produced them, and in the wisdom of the dispositions which have been concerted, in pursuance of the powers vested in you, and whatever may be the event, we shall cheerfully concur in the provisions, which the Legislature has had under consideration, may require on the part of Congress, and in any other which the future peace and safety of our frontier settlements may demand.

The critical situation of the European powers will engage a due portion of our attention; and we shall be ready to adopt any measures which a prudent consideration may suggest for the preservation of the balance of power. The navigation and the fisheries of the United States, are objects too interesting, not to inspire a disposition to promote them, be all the means which shall appear to us consistent with their natural progress and permanent profect.

Impressed with the importance of a free intercourse with the Mediterranean, we shall not omit any deliberation and employment, which may conduce to the adoption of proper measures, for removing the impediments that obstruct it.

The improvement of the judiciary system, and the other important objects, to which you have pointed out attention, will not fail to engage the consideration they respectively merit.

In the course of our deliberation, upon every subject, we shall rely upon that co-operation, which an undiminished zeal and unabated anxiety for the public welfare, on your part, so thoroughly ensure; and as it is our anxious desire, to it shall be our constant endeavor, to render the established government more and more instrumental in promoting the good of our fellow citizens, and more and more the object of their attachment and confidence.

To this Address, the PRESIDENT was pleased to reply, as follows:—
GENTLEMEN,
THESE assurances of favorable attention to the subjects I have recommended, and of entire confidence in my views, make the impression on me, which I ought not to feel. I thank you for them both, and shall continue to rely much on the success of all my measures for the public good on the aid they will receive from the wisdom and candour of your councils.

G. WASHINGTON.
At two o'clock in the afternoon, the following Address of the House of Representatives was delivered to the President of the United States, at his house:—
The Representatives of the people of the U. S. have taken happy consideration your address to the two houses at the opening of the present session of Congress.
We share in the satisfaction inspired by the prospects which continue to be so auspicious to our public affairs. The challenges resulting from the failure of our revenue on our agriculture, the rise of public credit, with the further advantages promised by it, and the facility of resources which are afforded, so fully border upon the community, fully authorize our mutual congratulations on the present occasion. Nor can we without an additional gratification, that the energy of the laws for promoting adequate revenues have been honorably sustained by the conduct of citizens whose patriotism and ability were more immediately concerned.
The success of the loan opened in Holland, enables the disadvantages of the present moment, is the more important, not only because the confidence already placed in the United States, but as the effect of a judicious application of that aid, will still further illustrate the solidity of the foundation on which the public credit rests.

Vols. 7.] THE HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE. WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 2, 1791. NORTHAMPTON, (MASSACHUSETTS) Published by WILLIAM BUTLER.

The preparatory steps taken by the State of Virginia in concert with the district of Kentucky towards the erection of the latter into a distinct member of the Union, exhibit a liberality mutually honorable to the parties. We shall behold with this important subject, the favorable consideration which it merits: and wish that the same policy which ought to govern our decision, shall not fail to mitigate the exigent circumstances, which are awaking those expressions in behalf of our fellow-citizens of Kentucky.

While we regret the necessity which has produced offensive hostilities against some of the Indian tribes north west of the Ohio, we sympathize too much with our western brethren not to behold with approbation the watchfulness and vigor which have been exerted by the executive authority, for their protection; and which, we trust, will make the aggressions so odious that it is their interest to merit by a peaceable behavior the friendship and humanity which the United States are always ready to extend to them.

The encouragement of our own navigation, has, at all times, appeared to us highly important. The point of view under which we recommended it to you is strongly enforced by the actual state of things in Europe. It will be incumbent on us to consider, in what minds our commerce and agriculture can be best relieved from an injurious dependence on the navigation of other nations, which the frequency of their wars render a too precarious resource for conveying the productions of our country to market.

The present state of our trade to the Mediterranean, from our port of New York, is highly important. The point of view under which we recommended it to you is strongly enforced by the actual state of things in Europe. It will be incumbent on us to consider, in what minds our commerce and agriculture can be best relieved from an injurious dependence on the navigation of other nations, which the frequency of their wars render a too precarious resource for conveying the productions of our country to market.

The present state of our trade to the Mediterranean, from our port of New York, is highly important. The point of view under which we recommended it to you is strongly enforced by the actual state of things in Europe. It will be incumbent on us to consider, in what minds our commerce and agriculture can be best relieved from an injurious dependence on the navigation of other nations, which the frequency of their wars render a too precarious resource for conveying the productions of our country to market.

The present state of our trade to the Mediterranean, from our port of New York, is highly important. The point of view under which we recommended it to you is strongly enforced by the actual state of things in Europe. It will be incumbent on us to consider, in what minds our commerce and agriculture can be best relieved from an injurious dependence on the navigation of other nations, which the frequency of their wars render a too precarious resource for conveying the productions of our country to market.

From the HERALD OF FREEDOM.
The BEE.
As nobody knows who I am, I can be as fancy and laugh as much as I please, without any danger to my peace or credit. With this idea of my own security, I intend, this number, to take notice of a strange kind of incompleteness I am every day observing, in a certain family, owing to the unaccountable—I do not know what to call it—in the wife. It is an instance of a sort of sense—dissimulation—some prodigality—that a want of compound interest. I will tell you how she sits, and then you may term it what you please. She rises in decent fashion, in the morning—dresses herself very tight, all her hair, and that is seldom combed out until a little before dinner. Her disposition is very easy, rather too much so—it is very obliging, if the case calls for it; but then she is always hurried, and never accomplishes more than half as much, as one of less affectionate conduct. If the children do not try too hard to please her, she can get them in for school, by the time it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know, what—that she will walk round a chair to get from the fire in the table, forty times and never think of moving it away; and let the broom lie on the floor, and all her hands laid out over it half the forenoon, and for my dear friend, I say, it is half done—and so for my dear friend, I say, it will be a second prodigy—of farthel. She loves to live away; and she has many good things at the house, and sometimes she is quite economical, at boarding them. But she is not in the business of the moment, or so—do not know,