So Calvin can'd Servines for to die,
Becamie he could not with his creed comply.
And our fore fathers brought this tenate o'el,
And planted it upon our eaften fore;
Tis you are wrong, I know, and you are right,
I have Gon's spirit, and have got the light;
And he that doth join fentiments with me,
Altho' inworks he quite immortal be,
Stands fairer to enjoy the bleft policinon,
Than moral men, that's not of my profession.
The pious Calvin foy'd out by his eles. Than moral men, that's not of my profession. The pieus Calvin fey'd out by his gloss. That Goo decreed what ever comes to pais; Then all alike obey the eternal mind, and all alike obey the eternal mind, and all alike persons he grand design. Then Murray, sid, that all will happy be For goodness ridely, elect could ne'er decree; What Goodness, Justice, Mercy, can it be To punish those whoath by disting. Fience tyraits reck their rengeance out on thee, Who do exactly what themselves decree: One thinks that he's heccura a child of more One thinks that he's become a child of grace, Because his Priest threw water in his face : Another fays that he is so much more, Because his Priest has washed him all o'er; One thinks that he shall surely go to Heaven, Because he doth observe one day in seven; Became in outro oncerte one any in leven;
Ike: Jews of old reviling he will fay,
You're not of God, you break the Subbath day.
But hethat ferres God one, and ferres the Devil fix,
May chance to founder in the river Styx; The Onaker filent fits and hambly waits. the Unaker litent his end humbly waits,
Unail he's got the fight sale concerts,
Then gladly tells his neighbor that God
To him the only rules to get to Heaven,
The Sinker confident that he is right,
And that all others are as dark as night; And that all others are as dark as night; Goes to the gryfars his fins for no confess. And fancier that will farve for righteofuses. With flashing, nowling, and oddinies of action. Shows not fo much religion as diffraction; These each one happy in his own conceit, And confuresutherstor a worful fate. My food come follow lefus and his Laws, Virgio and boliness adorn his caste; It matters not formach the form of creeds.
