Letter from Georgia represent the peace between, the United States and the Creek Indians to be jupon a very precarious footing. "It is apprehended the Spaniards have been but too successful in sowings rejudices to the difadvantages of the United States, as it is even faid that Gen. M'Gillivray has been inceffan ly affailed from that, and perhaps another quarter, to break with us. Should the firength of the Creeks be break with us. Should the firength of the Creeks be-joined to the general Judian league that feems to be forming against us, from an apprehension that their country is in danger, the confequences may prove fo-foully differing to the whole frontier; and it may be found, perhaps too late, that regular armirs are by no means calculated to reprefs Indian aggreffions."

The English ministerial prints are uniform in reprefenting the affairs of France to be in the last of def perate fittation, the nation tom by intelline divisions, and upon the point of becoming a frey to searchy within, and the combined and emigrated forces with-out. French papers, particularly the Leyden Gazette, ne late arrivals, which by no mean are received by some late arrivals, which by no means poortray the nation in those difinal colours that de-fignate the London miniferial newspapers, and would lead an unsuffecting reader to suppose the revolution in danger.

POLAND.

Campef Lieut. Gen. Fudycli, June 14.
On the 10th, in the morning, we were attacked by the enemy between Mire and Swietzna. Our cavalry obliged them to retire after a combat of fome hour obliged them to retire after a comman or tome more, with the loss of 150 men left dead upon the field of bartle. Or our fide we had only few men killed. Gen. Judycki, willing to profit of this advantage, immediately dispatched a barrallion of infantry, with two pieces of cannon, and a body of 500 cavalry to purfue the tenenty in their retreat, but a very fudden and heavy rain prevented the execution of his orders.

On the 1 th, in the atternoon, we detached the 15th hatrallion, with 300 cavalry, and four pieces of canon, under the direction of Vice Brigadier Wawizecke, oreconnolite the enemy.

The body of these troops approached very near the noffian camp, at Zalase, about a mile from Mire, and some camp, at Zalafe, about a mile from Mire, and took pofton an eminence where they could plainly fee it. They perceived that the Ruffiant were about the buttle array, and the 2it. They perceived that the Kuthani were already in buttle array, and the latter discharged some artillery at them, but it was pointed too high to do execution. After feeral discharges on both fides, our mosts having middled the object late, were fent for, retired. The enemy pursued in the most profound filence for the half an hour, while our troops were marching in order of battle, with the cavalry on their wings.

The Refulans, we perceived, were much fironger than we, and they began playing their artillery of 12 and 6 pounders, which we andwered only with 3 poun-falling mostly behind this line of cavalry, made them think that they had got between two fires, and frightenthink that they had got between two firet, and frighten-ed the horfest fo much they could not be managed. The first and second battallium allo began to break; but encouraged by the example of their officers they were foon brought again into order.

Our infantry, commanded by Major Generali Frankawhi, Grabowski, and Nicelouwski, spoported with the greatest courage a very terrible and heavy size from the enemy. It at length cealed, and we thought that the enemy. It al length cealed, and we thought that the Rollinss had retired, having lot fight of them; when, all one fudden, they appeared on our flank. They begun to fire on us, and we should have fusfered confiderably if their artillery had been well difficult. We then sounded a retreat, which was made in the greatest order, when we perceived the enemy once mote on our slanks and sear. Thus surrounded on all sides, we did fanks and tear. Thus formonded on all fides, we did fanks and tear. Thus formonded on all fides, we did not loofs our prefence of mind or our courge. The Collects and the Refinal dragoons came out of a wood & attached our infantry, which were no longer under the proceeding of the caralty. But the warm and well (inported fire of our canon obliged them to retire with confiderable lofs, leaving a Colonel of carabineers on the held of bartle.

While our army was retiring towards Niefwiefz, the Rufflags, in great numbers, fell on this town to pillage it, and the Ceffacks appeared round the ditches which invironit. But 25 we had placed in the caftle the inviront. But as we had placed in the catle the fectord battallion of the Sh regiment, confliting of 250 men, to cover our retreat, this battallion kept up fo warm a fire, that they forced the enemyler retire, after having loft great sembers—they after this cooled the town, and ittired in good order.

town, and ittired in good order.

Their brave traces matched all night, and having arrived at the river of Unia, they threw a bridge over, and craffed it. We brought off almost all our baggage.

The love of truth obliges us to acknowledge, that this engagement did not terminate to our advantage; the enemy's superiority in number, the false reports made to us of their force, the experience of old fol-diers, who have only finished one wangs begin ano-ther, the fevere discipline of the Ruffians, there devotion to the Sovereign, our too great forwardness, and the haste with which we have been obliged to collect an army, all prepare as, to receive fome unfavourable news. But the check we have experienced, far from abating cor colleage, has only raifed it much higher ; the e of the Am gicans, who follsined many defea example of the Americans, who futning of many defeats before they achieved the glorious conjuged, of liberry, infipired with confidence against all the presigns of difficult and created by our censules, which are regarded rather with indignation that fear by all good citizens.

on the 1st in the long per eigent accounts or our monogs and fittation.

On the 1st inft, having perceived a column of Rufan troops on the right of our campat Lubar, and a nother on the left, crotting the river Sloez, our General, Prince J. Ponistowiks, ordered General Kateiaziko, with four battellions of Infantry, one brigade of national caralry, and one polk of light horfe, to march towards Caracterija; whilf General Urchhorfe, with the brigade of Mokronowski, west along the river Sloez, to recompitte the enemy towards Offropol The Prince hinfelf foos followed, with the 5th regiment of Luboorski. He found Gen. Urelboriki already exceed with four between the control of the found for the property of the prope eaged with four battallions of chalicuts, two battallions of light borfe, and a pulk of collacks. Seeing our caof light horfe, and a pulk of collacks. Seeing our ca-eality preffed by faperior numbers, the Prince fell on the left flank of the enemy, which put them-inco con-fusion, and they retreated towards Utiniopal, where fulion, and they retreated rowards Uriniopal, where the vanguardof Gen. Kochowski was encamped, com-ported of two battallions of granadiers, two do, of chaffean, two palts of caraffirms, and one do. of cof-facks. After having reconneitered, the enemy the-Prince retorating towards Labar, gave orders to firthe the casep, and the whole army began the march at 4 in the morning, leaving Gen Urchlordit to bring up, the teas. The rear was continually haraffed by 4000-Ruffians, until coming to Bornfakowee, our march was interrupted by a fatal accident. The wooden bridge gave way under the weight of the cavalry. The encmy, in the mean time, brought up their main force, and their cannon began to play on the milldam, which we had to pafe. Two battallions, ender Grochwik and their cannon began to pay on the intustri, which we had to pair. Two battallions, ander Gnockowski and Capt. Bronikowski, were thus exposed to a furious artack, after a most galliant refusitance, having lost 200 infactry, and about 50 cavalry, the remainder retreated through the water, having first fank their cannon. We lost, in this action, one Major and eight officers killed, ioft, in this action, one Major and eight cinicat killed, and two milling.

The main army, finding the fertifications of Volonma unresable, on the 17th infit marched on towards. Zielime, where, being reinforced by fome troops from Zafizw, it halted to give battle to the enemy. They foom appeared, confifting of about 2500 extrairs, 900 infantry, and 24 pieces of cannon. The action began with the greateff (usy, and continued from fever o'clock in the afternoon, when the enemy were obliged to retreat, leaving as the field of battle, whereapon havrefled for two hours, our army marched to Zal-near which it is now encamped.

law, near which it is now encamped.

We cannot yet afectain our loft—it appears to be aabout 800 infantry, and 300 horfe, and that of the enemy about 4000. The Ruffinn force, when joined, under Gen. Kockhowfii, we hear, will be three times more numerous than our to which we have only our courage and partiorism to oppose.

Ms. Butler,...
PLEASE to give the following a place in your paper, and you will oblige one of your readers. THE INDEPENDENT REFLECTOR-No I

WHEN the sim of a writer is the publick good,

When the rim or a writer is the passive good,
if he chances to they are the featurests of others, yer, if he treats persons and things with condor, he ought to be candidly attended to, and what he offers to public size without he weighed, with impartiality in the hadrances of Reason. This is what I would with for. I find furth address to a particular Centric I fhall first address to a particular Gentlafor. — I final full address to a particular Caratis-man, and then to the yecomarry of the County. To the Hon. DAVID SMEAD, Esq. S. I. R., I HAVE feen formething in the publick prints, re-freedings a division of this County, inferred by your da-firer. It feems the General Count fille it a petition; they must be formed from their a specion; they must be foppoind to understand the mode and grammar of a petition better than we farmers—formetings a petition hambly showeth—but I am at a lost who they are that knowly favou. You would have gratified me and the public, had you informed as from third me and the public, had you infolmed as from what number of towns your convention confided, and how many towns were defrome of fach a division of the county as is proposed. But since these things are left for us to find out as we can, I fault next address myfelf to the respectable body of my fellow cirizens of this county, upon the sobject of advission of the coun-

FRIENDS AND BRETHREN. FRINDS AND BRUNEREN,
I NEITHER enjoy nor with for any office of publick trust or emolument in the county, nor am I concerted with any who do—the metter is of no more concern to me than people in general. However, in a matter which concerns the good of the whole, I would with the whole had been previously condition—and as it would perhaps be enjure in the colors.

Convention before the next fellion of the general county convention before the next fellion of the general county. I would propose it to the several towns in the county, to confider the situation and circomfluers of the county, and infract their representatives on the subject; & if any towns have not Representatives, in that cale to lend the result of their deliberations on the subject to the General Court, by fome representatives of a neighbor-ing town, that the real fence and opinion of the Counto a the fulfield may be known. This county is much the largest of any in this part of the State, it courses eleven towns and almost 3000 inhabitants more than the county of Worcefer; its extent is greater than the whole flate of Rhode Mand and has nearly flatered ghas as many abiditions as that whole that he which there are five counties. Population, and coorfigurate the counties. Population, and coorfigurate flate displies of the country is necessary I will not district. The bounds of the country is necessary I will not displies. The bounds of the Country is necessary I will not display. The bounds of the Country is not perfect to a foodbade dispatch, and one of the plates where the Countries heldie very improperly structed for the people in grey (a). Propel have frequently come to counts from encholorable diffuser with a hamber of wintered and targ' dilander to the countries of the countries and they dilander to the countries of the countries and they dilander to the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries. inspert nogation in the partiern rice cheiped any critich manner, and without delay.— But the gordfine is, how final the county be divided to the ground the middle has people? Let us coulded in finalities, it is assurf quare, and a large river rouning from north, by feath, dividing it nearly lets two equal parts, and my? it be a few miles more from North to Somit; than, lets well to well, yet fach is the difficulty of creffine the River. to well, yet fach is the difficulty of excelling the River in many feafour of the yearby rection of they derived in many feafour of the yearby rection of they derived in many feafour of the yearby rection of they derived in many feafour of the years, which is not seen to the feafour of the part of the county of Worseffer, have medianed a divifies of that county. Let the western range of more in that county be assumed to that pure of their county cast of the river, and let that district be division by an east and well line hate two countries. There evided he a fufficient number of town in each for a condry, and public ballonic might be done in each wint general disparch and lefs expense to the fully-line. But western ompare and risk oppose to the highest-like western part of the County, with some corrusprenced stone the county of Benkhine, might in like manner be shedt in the county of Benkhine, might in like manner be shedt in the counties. Our increasing population with Some render the number of popula fufficient. I shale only toaded, that having made my proposals, I leaves them no your candel confidention, withing you to include that which is bed.
