

INTERESTING OBSERVATIONS ON THE COMPARATIVE NUMBER OF THE TWO SEXES.

It is generally known that civilians and writers of fiction in general, as well as moral writers, have long believed and reasoned from it, as a fact, that of the human race there are more males born in the world, than females. Some have said the proportion is as thirteen to twelve. This has always been considered as a full proof, that polygamy is contrary to natural law. The small superiority of males, has also generally been considered as a wise appointment of Providence, to balance the distribution of males in war, or by occupations more dangerous to life than the domestic labours of the female sex. It happened, that not long ago, on reading Blue's travels, I found that he tells the fact in question, and affirms, that in Syria and Egypt, as well as Arabia and the eastern parts of Africa, which he visited, there is a great plurality of females, and even considers this some excuse for the practice of polygamy in those countries. I had in my life time met with so many mistakes in the most absurd judicious travellers, differing from local or accidental circumstances, and their acquaintance with the modes and habits of life in the countries where they make their remarks, that I did not immediately embrace his opinion; however, happening soon after to see the census of the united states, in which the males and females are accurately distinguished, I thought it an excellent opportunity of trying how the matter stands in this extensive country. The result is to be seen in the table hereto annexed, in which it will be found, that there is a plurality of males in every state except three. Perhaps it may be proper to observe, that this matter has been stated to many gentlemen of learning and observation, and that they were generally silent, after being told that three of the united states only had a majority of females, whether they supposed male three were in the northern or southern quarter. By much the greatest number supposed, that they were to the southward; but it appears that they are, Massachusetts, Rhode-Island, and Connecticut. It remained then to see whether this remarkable difference in those states could be accounted for. Some supposed that the number of scarring men in those states might account for it; but considering that all those who were from home, and not known to be dead, were included in the census, this seemed wholly insufficient. It was then observed, that the great migrations from these three states might possibly be the reason of the difference, as in migrations more males go out than females, especially at first, and that all young persons, or of middle age. That this is indeed the true reason, seems sufficiently proved by the following remarks on the table itself.

1. New Hampshire, from which also many migrations take place, though it has by the census a superiority of males, yet it very small, compared to the other states.

2. It is well known that very large migrations have taken place of late years, from the New England states, in general, to the northern and western parts of New York; and it appears plainly, that the superiority of males in the state of New York, is greater in proportion to its numbers than in Pennsylvania or Virginia, and indeed than in any other state, except two, which shall be immediately mentioned.

3. By far the greatest superiority of males, in proportion to the numbers, is in Vermont and Kentucky, to which there have been the greatest and most recent migrations; the first of them having nearly ten males to six females, and the other a little more.

From the whole it appears, that the census of the united states has afforded a strong confirmation of the old opinion upon this part of natural history.

21 st Annual Meeting of the FINAL SAL-

YATION OF ALL MEN, through the Churches holding in Convention, in the city of Philadelphia, May 25th, 1793.

Salisbury Brethren in the Faith,

GREETING,

MY DEAR BRETHREN IN THE LORD,

THROUGH the goodness & mercy of our common Lord and Master, we met according to appointment, and were joined together by letters and messengers from many of our sister churches, and hope you will join with us in thanks to God for it, Good news from Eng. West. North and South, of the spread of knowledge of the truth in Jesus; we believe the word of the prophet are fulfilling, as the prophets begin to blossom as the rose, and rejoice. Several churches have been constituted who have not yet sent forward messengers and letters, but expect to, next convention; the harlot appears to be great, but also, the labourers are few, tho' we are to be shamed, to think that the Head of the Church has raised up so many saints to labor in his vineyard since the last convention, who have recently preached a Universal Saviour, not only in this continent, but also in Europe.

God endow us all with a spirit of prayer, that we may pray the Lord of the harshoards, and send forth many laborers into every part of the extended globe, who shall not be ashamed of the gospel of Christ, but openly and boldly preach according to the command of Jesus, to every creature, in full confidence, that entire-it is Jesus for every one of the sons of men, and that the greater part of every unbeliever and the enjoyment of the life is unbelief, and unbelief the cause of their fallen state of darkness and ignorance of the universal love of God, displayed in the gospel of Christ.

Therefore, dearly beloved, while we in general pray them to be reconciled to Jesus, let us be our study to remove every prejudice, and take up every fla-nous block out of the way of those who are all his people; and by brotherly love gracious forbearance, and patience under all atrocities they cast upon us, let all who profess to believe in the unity of God, knowing him in whom we have believed, to do well in him, loving one another, preferring one another, praying for all men, and that without wrath or anger, doing good for evil, and thus conquer our dear fellow heirs in Jesus, we are yet ignorant of his universal love, to say by our conduct to one another, and in all men, that we have been with him, and thus to compel them to come in to him, that the soul-exalting belief in the redemption of all things, does not tend to make us do evil to any, but to love all whether they be of the circumcision or no circumlocution, Greek or Jew, Scythian, Barbarian, bond or free; believing Christ and all in all, and thus in his own time will bring all things to himself, destroy death and him that hath the power of death, and bring in the kingdom of Christ Jesus, and have all things made new, and be not entangled in the yoke of bondage.

P. S. The convention recommend, they have few wants, and consequently few arts. Their principal objects are defence and subsistence; the education of a young man, therefore, extends little, and consists mainly in the study of the original languages of the empire.
