

TANZAS,
On the Unfortunate Emigrants from Cape...

Ye general grief, who feel for others grief,
Who for misfortunes heave the heavy sigh...

Oh! I list, indignant, to the woe fraught tale—
See what a group of hapless wights appear!

The tender offspring, and the aged sire,
The spotless virgin, and the Matron grey...

Heard the deep sigh on all they left behind,
And landed helpless on Colombia's shore.

Oh! may the breast of charity expand,
Oh! may it now the grateful bow below...

LEXINGTON, July 20.

On Saturday last Mr. Daniel Ketchum...
He was taken prisoner through this place...

We are informed, that two Indians attending... the Ohio River near the mouth of the...

About the 20th May last, a boat bound to... the Illinois from Kentucky, was taken by...

By a gentleman who arrived in town on...
Wednesday last from Cumberland, we are informed...

Mr. Robertson informs, that a boat of... four hundred Creeks and Cherokee had lately sailed...

BALTIMORE August 22.

On Sunday, the 4th inst. the Rev. Mr. Gibbon...
Superior General of the Clergy in St. Domingo...

What an admirable lesson for suffering Christians!
May this example of patience, submission and moderation...

"You were proprietors of inviolable lands—
you were the Lords, and almost the forefathers...

Oh! I list, indignant, to the woe fraught tale—
See what a group of hapless wights appear!

All then is lost for you! Reduced to the deepest distress, you have nothing left but grief, and your tears...

Selah Norton,

HAS just received an assortment of NEW GOODS,
which with his former assortment...

He will sell EIGHT FENCE, per pound for BUTTER, part Cash...

Shegan and Peck,

ONCE more solicit the attention of their friends,
as they have just received an addition...

JOSEPH LAZELL,

BEGS leave to inform his good old friends, and the Public in general, that he has just come to hand...

English & W. I. Goods,

which he is determined to sell on the most favorable terms...

Crockery and Glass Ware,

Paper hangings of all kinds—upon the lowest terms.

NEW LONDON, August 22.

standing the Captain represented to them in the most feeling manner...

Sorely then must he some distress have laid upon in store, for the wretch who in hot blood could remain unmoved...

BRIGADE ORDERS,

FOR THE SECOND BRIGADE, FOURTH DIVISION MASS. MILITIA.
September 5, 1793.
The Brigadier General in consequence of Orders from the Maj. General...

Selah Norton,

HAS just received an assortment of NEW GOODS,
which with his former assortment...

He will sell EIGHT FENCE, per pound for BUTTER, part Cash...

Shegan and Peck,

ONCE more solicit the attention of their friends,
as they have just received an addition...

JOSEPH LAZELL,

BEGS leave to inform his good old friends, and the Public in general...

English & W. I. Goods,

which he is determined to sell on the most favorable terms...

Crockery and Glass Ware,

Paper hangings of all kinds—upon the lowest terms.

NEW LONDON, August 22.

Spencer Whiting,
HAS for G. L. POWDER, per barrel, single quality...
He wishes to remind those who are indebted to him...

All Persons having demands on the estate of Ephraim Robbins late of Amherst deceased...

WHEREAS in the former paper there has been an advertisement for Major Green... to take the tender of the freight of the Mocha...

THE Subscriber wishes to inform his customers, that he must have settlement by the tenth of October...

NOTICE is hereby given to the following non-resident Proprietors of Land in South-Brimfield...

HEZEKIAH FISK, Cob.

Smith Brimfield, Sept. 6, 1793.

Take Notice.

ALL persons indebted to the late Partnership of KING and HOW, whose accounts are more than 6 months standing...

WANTED a Journeyman in the CLOTHIER'S business...

Strayed or stolen from the pasture of the Subscriber...

A FOLLOS KING, Cheshirefield, Sept. 6, 1793.

WANTED a Journeyman in the CLOTHIER'S business...

Strayed or stolen from the pasture of the Subscriber...

A FOLLOS KING, Cheshirefield, Sept. 6, 1793.

WANTED a Journeyman in the CLOTHIER'S business...

A FOLLOS KING, Cheshirefield, Sept. 6, 1793.

Strayed or stolen from the pasture of the Subscriber...

A FOLLOS KING, Cheshirefield, Sept. 6, 1793.

WANTED a Journeyman in the CLOTHIER'S business...

A FOLLOS KING, Cheshirefield, Sept. 6, 1793.

Hampshire Gazette.

NORTHAMPTON, (Massachusetts) PRINTED AND PUBLISHED BY WILLIAM BUTLER.
Vol. VII.] WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1793. [NUMB. 368.

Chief Justice JAY's opinion on the question "Whether a State be liable to be sued by a private citizen of another State?" [CONCLUDED.]

THE question now before us renders it necessary to pay particular attention to that part of the opinion which extends the judicial power... "It is a political, safe and good that, not only the controversies in which a State is plaintiff, but also those in which a State is defendant, should be settled—Both cases therefore are within the reason of the remedy; and ought to be so adjudged, unless the obvious, plain and literal sense of the words forbid it."

"If we attend to the words, we find them to be explicit, positive, free from ambiguity, and without room for such implied exceptions—'The judicial power of the United States shall extend to controversies between a state and citizens of another state.'"

"If the constitution really meant to exclude the power only to those controversies in which a state might be plaintiff, the extension of it to those in which a state might be defendant, and which it would be in vain to attempt to exclude, would be in vain."

"I with the state of society was so far improved, and the science of government so far advanced, that the business of the state, the whole nation could in the possible course of law, be compelled to do justice, and be sued by individual citizens... Whether that, is, or is not, now the case, ought not to be thus collaterally and incidentally decided—I leave it a question."

"As this opinion, though deliberately formed, has been hastily reduced to writing, between the intervals of the daily adjournments, and while my mind was occupied and agitated by the business of the day, I fear it is less concise and connected than it might otherwise have been."

"HEZEKIAH FISK, Cob. Smith Brimfield, Sept. 6, 1793." "Take Notice."

"ALL persons indebted to the late Partnership of KING and HOW, whose accounts are more than 6 months standing, are called upon, for the last time, in this way, to make payment."

Speaking of her. In the same section they distinguish the cases where Ambassadors are plaintiffs, from those in which Ambassadors are defendants, and make different provisions respecting those cases...

I perceive, and therefore craver urges me to mention, a circumstance which seems to favor the opposite side of the question—It is this—The same section of the constitution...

"It is this—In all cases of action against private individuals, the National Courts are supported in all their legal and constitutional proceedings and judgments, by the same of the executive power of the United States—but in cases of action against the United States, there is no power which the courts can call to their aid."

"I with the state of society was so far improved, and the science of government so far advanced, that the business of the state, the whole nation could in the possible course of law, be compelled to do justice, and be sued by individual citizens...

"Whether that, is, or is not, now the case, ought not to be thus collaterally and incidentally decided—I leave it a question."

"As this opinion, though deliberately formed, has been hastily reduced to writing, between the intervals of the daily adjournments, and while my mind was occupied and agitated by the business of the day, I fear it is less concise and connected than it might otherwise have been."

"HEZEKIAH FISK, Cob. Smith Brimfield, Sept. 6, 1793." "Take Notice."

"ALL persons indebted to the late Partnership of KING and HOW, whose accounts are more than 6 months standing, are called upon, for the last time, in this way, to make payment."

It is a political, safe and good that, not only the controversies in which a State is plaintiff, but also those in which a State is defendant, should be settled—Both cases therefore are within the reason of the remedy; and ought to be so adjudged, unless the obvious, plain and literal sense of the words forbid it."

"If we attend to the words, we find them to be explicit, positive, free from ambiguity, and without room for such implied exceptions—'The judicial power of the United States shall extend to controversies between a state and citizens of another state.'"

"If the constitution really meant to exclude the power only to those controversies in which a state might be plaintiff, the extension of it to those in which a state might be defendant, and which it would be in vain to attempt to exclude, would be in vain."

"I with the state of society was so far improved, and the science of government so far advanced, that the business of the state, the whole nation could in the possible course of law, be compelled to do justice, and be sued by individual citizens...

"Whether that, is, or is not, now the case, ought not to be thus collaterally and incidentally decided—I leave it a question."

"As this opinion, though deliberately formed, has been hastily reduced to writing, between the intervals of the daily adjournments, and while my mind was occupied and agitated by the business of the day, I fear it is less concise and connected than it might otherwise have been."

"HEZEKIAH FISK, Cob. Smith Brimfield, Sept. 6, 1793." "Take Notice."

"ALL persons indebted to the late Partnership of KING and HOW, whose accounts are more than 6 months standing, are called upon, for the last time, in this way, to make payment."

It is a political, safe and good that, not only the controversies in which a State is plaintiff, but also those in which a State is defendant, should be settled—Both cases therefore are within the reason of the remedy; and ought to be so adjudged, unless the obvious, plain and literal sense of the words forbid it."

"If we attend to the words, we find them to be explicit, positive, free from ambiguity, and without room for such implied exceptions—'The judicial power of the United States shall extend to controversies between a state and citizens of another state.'"

"If the constitution really meant to exclude the power only to those controversies in which a state might be plaintiff, the extension of it to those in which a state might be defendant, and which it would be in vain to attempt to exclude, would be in vain."

"I with the state of society was so far improved, and the science of government so far advanced, that the business of the state, the whole nation could in the possible course of law, be compelled to do justice, and be sued by individual citizens...

"Whether that, is, or is not, now the case, ought not to be thus collaterally and incidentally decided—I leave it a question."

"As this opinion, though deliberately formed, has been hastily reduced to writing, between the intervals of the daily adjournments, and while my mind was occupied and agitated by the business of the day, I fear it is less concise and connected than it might otherwise have been."

"HEZEKIAH FISK, Cob. Smith Brimfield, Sept. 6, 1793." "Take Notice."

"ALL persons indebted to the late Partnership of KING and HOW, whose accounts are more than 6 months standing, are called upon, for the last time, in this way, to make payment."