FRENCH CALENDAR, TREASTH CALLENDARY, Humanity is not more thocked at the Gothic barbarities of the French, than religion at their impiety. The divine law, ordaining a Sabbath once in feven days, is violated by the National Convenho have decreed, that a week fhall confift of ten days, and every tenth day be nomeriated to reft and to the celebration of the revolution. Gon ALMIGHLY has Said, fix days field thou labor and do als the work; the convention lay nine days that the labor and do all the work. Query, how will poor laborers like the alteration? The divine inflitution of the Sabbath, allows fifty two days in the year for repole; the French, mighty zealous friends of the poor, decree that they shall be allowed only thirty fix days in the year for reft!

—If however the bodies of man and beaft canfuffzin this additional labor, it will be no fmall faving of time. There are at least eight millions of laborers in France, whose labor is worth twenty cents a day—fixteen days labor in a year amounts to three dol-lars and twenty cents, which each laborer will carn in a year, more than be did un-der the divine, Eashlubment. This fum multiplied by eight millions, gives a pro-duct of twenty five millions fix hundred thousand dollars, the annual extra earn-ings under the new inflitution. This is no triffing fum; indeed such an extra fum will be wanted to repair the loss of

IN which is attempted a display of God's benevolence and grace to his cream reMan, as an individual and in his focial and na tional connections. Notice is taken of personal favours of Providence, as also of perional lavours of revicence, as also or the fingular prosperity of our action. Then the full-jeft endeavours to embrace the perfect tody-linous and different condi-tion of the European Kingdoms, originat-ing from the molition of Princes, com-bined again the Government and Liberties of the French Republic. The probable iffue of those convultions, according to the usual course of providential events, is fla-ted to be, the emancipation of France from her former oppressions, and from the prelear pressionable combination of her emies; the propagation of a fpirit of free ligion through neighbouring countries, to the great occreate of burnen vistue and hap-pinels. deficiption? Is Holland, are the Swife

Cantons, or America, incapable of facts relations? France is at prefeot the victim of a vite mob of anarchith. Granted. Suppole the thould return to her fenfer, without caring to return to her chains; without caring to retwar to her chains; fuppole even that the flood reject liberty noder her faitest form, a limited monarchy; fuppole the flood perifit is being a republich, and contrive at last to chabilit a good one," founded," as well it may be, " on the principles of universal judies," have we fill to perifit in this war, for the fake of a royal party in France; Shad the wounds of our bleeding country never be flopped to ease they to be bound up with Mauirelines, and Gezettes, and whining exhortations to and Gzzettes, and whining exhortations to a victorious enemy, to take a Government from the hands of Mr. Pitt, fimilar possibly from the heads of Mr. First, smiles possibly to that which his mild confederates are now contriving for Poland? Bot, admitting for a moment that the Royalifs in France will be personded by this Manifesto that the war is to be continned until there-effablishment of Monarchy. What monarchy is meant? Such as the Toulouse, subspice example is recommended to the rest of France, have stipulated for? Nor one word of this is contained in the Manifesto, What encouragement, there-fore, does Mr. Pitt offer to that unfortunate description of men whom he would per-foode to truk him with their lives, their fortunes, and their prospects ? Lord Hood told them be came to reflere manarchy. The Toulancle enter into a treaty with the noble Lord; by virtue of which, he is put in possession of their harbor and shipping, on condition of his restoring Monarchy according to the Conflitation of 1789. One would have thought that the very first dispatch from London, if Ministers had been possesfed of one lingle fpath of good faith, would have carried out a full confirmation of the prizeciple of this Treaty with the Tonionefe:

What happens? "The confidence which
"one of the principal French towns has "one of the principal French towns has a larly placed in his Majety" (the extens of which confidence, be it remembered, is affectuated by a positive treaty,) "impose "upon his Majety a duty, prefing and "indiffeenfable, of explaining what are "his views."

These views, as we have before observed. There view, as we have before onerved, are generally, and with regard, to the objects of the war, as confused and inexplicable as ever; but with regard to the unbappy. Toulousele, and their Conditionion of 1789, they are clear and positive enough. Not
