"A Paragraph contained in the Chronical State of the Honfe."

A ratagraph contained in the United of Thursday, purporting to be an extract from the journals of the Hoofe of Representatives, on the subject of the answer to the Lieutenant Governor's speech, saver to the Header and to general of the Hands, nor was any fuch you affects came down from the Senite, one originally, reported by the committee, the other, a new draught by the Senite. The latter contribution of the committee, the other, a new draught by the Senite. The latter contributions which was the committee, and the senite the senite of the senite that the senite committee of the senite committee of the senite committee of the senite that the senite committee of the senit ported by the committee, the other, a new draught by the Senate. The latter contained language which approved of the meafores taken by the Federal Government to prevent the evils of war extending to this country. This was objected to, on feveral grounds, viz: that it was not late to take any notice of those measures; that it was an interference with the Federal Government, which would apologize for a disapprobation of fome of their measures bereafter; and that there was nothing in the hereatter; and that mere was nothing in the Lieut. Governour's Speech, which with-on: violence, would admit of fuch an an-fwer. During this debate, almost every gentleman on either fide, expressed his en-tire approbation of the messages alloded to ; but fome doubted the propriety of the Answer, upon one or other of the grounds above fixed. It was then moved that the papers be committed. This motion obtained, and no infructions were given to the Committee. The quellion, as to a concurrence with the Senate, was not taen."-[Centinel.]
