After the evidence was heard, the Artorney moved that Rogers might be held to bail for his appearance at the next Cir-cail Court.

Mit. Marten, on behalf of the Cooful of France, appeared as counfil for Regent, who observed, that although there as an effential difference in the degree of evidence, necessary to be produced heiore a magifarste, in the examination of a perion, charged of a crime, to hold him to answer, and that which is necessary to conside on trial, yet he was of opinion, that in the prefent cafe, there was not color enough even to hold the party to bail—that the law was more, as it always ought to be in have wal more, as it always ought to be in a free country, written and denned—that Congress, who by the Federal Confliction are the only legitimete authority, to define the law of nations, had in their law I films confleted a law upon the fully d'una der confideration, and by that flatuer it appeared, that wheever being a citizen of the United States, full accept and receive a committee from a foreign power to country and the confideration of the foreign country and the control of the foreign country and the control of the foreign country and the country of the foreign country and the country of the foreign count commission from a foreign power to chair against the enemies of luch foreign power at peace with the United States, or ente foreign fervice as a feldier, marine or feature final be subject to punishment. That it could not be presented, for more evidence produced, that Ragers had accepted a com could it be pretended that he had enlifted either as a marine or framen, because from the whole current of the tellimony it appraced he had afted only in the capacity of a pilot—that all flatotes creating a crime ought to be conflored firstly, and in tavor of the liberty of the citizen—and that therefore, as the law, had particularly delignated the quality in which it should be criminal for the citizen to act on board of foreign veilel of force, and that of a pi lot not being one, the prefumption is that to act in that capacity is no crime.

Mr. Merten in the course of his observation faid—that this business was effentially changed from what it was the last year—that at that period those who were anxious to pursue the friends of the French, did it without law, and the supposed cul prit was apprehended fometimes for trea for one supposed crime and now for anoth er-but that the liberty of the citizens trier—but that the liberty of the citizens triemphed over all attempts to deflrey it,— and that the feveral profecutions commenced before any exiting law upon the fubject, were putdently reliequished.

It then communicated to a barge, it being If then commandate to a large, it hering low water, lying adjoining the ptenniles, laden with falt peter and other flores. This occasioned the conflagration to fiprad widely in a very front-time.—Several oo ther welftheand finall crafts, lying next the barge from after took fire, without any ther veitles and finall crafts, lying near the barge from after took fire, without any possibility of getting them off. The blow-ing up of the falspette, from the barge occasioned large flakes of fire to fall on the water boules belonging to the East India company, from whence the falspette was removed to the Tower (20 toes of which had been ferentiated with the state of which had been fortunately taken the preceding

When the fire communicated with the East India ware house, the faremen discontinged their exemions, and predently withtinned their exentions, and predently with-drew from the threatening f.c.n., as did-alfo, by their advice, the rearer neigh-bours—Soon after, the commodification after contained in the building blew up, with an explosion that could only be likened to the burfling of a volceno, and which had the effect upon the formunding houses, as far as Limeboule, Towerhill, and Mile end, of the shock of an earthquake: those immediately adjaining were unroused. The configuration now spread is every direction and was greatly increased by the wind, which towards evening blee very fresh, and all that followed was "cooling on worse confounded" by the important efforts which were made to oppose had so completely obtained the mast till at length, it may be fairly faid, the fire cealed for want of materials to confame, having reached an open space of ground, where the consexion of perisha-ble substances, was broken.

It was at the farther extremity of Ma

Shakefpeer's Ropewalk that it thopped.

It is not yet peficile to afcertain the number of heades demolrabed: the whole extent of ground from above Stone Saits to Ratcliff Crois, and from the water fide to S eporty Caufeway, is covered with one confored male of impaking rais. Where the different firets ran cappor be traced. Some accounts suppose for many as a thou-fand buildings of different descriptions eftroyed; there cannot be fo few as five nerroy as time canana one new as new as her hundred; among the principal of their sere the above India company. All permarchosic, a large fingar hoofe, a glad manufactory, a lighter builder's and all the ware houles which extended along thore. A thip deltroyed, on account of her being aground at low water, was a Earthadoes vessel.

The dawn of day prefented a feese mot diffressing to the feeling mind; all the furrounding field, were covered with houseless poor families that had with difficolty faved fofficient to cover them : decripid old men and wo wives and tamifhed infants! What a fubjeft for the exercise of that charity in characteristic to Britons !

It is deferving of particular notice, thus one hoale flood entirely uninqued in the very midft of this mighty rain, and which we are informed, was never counted by the family that inhabits it; affilled by their friends they to drenched it with water, that not even a page of glass was cracked It is a good boofe, and well worth the b
