NATIONAL CONFENTION, August 14.
The minister from the United States 1

The miniter from the United States to the French republic communicates to the Convention thawith of his fellow citizens for the professity of the astion and alks to whom he is to prefetch this credentials. Referred to the Committee of Public officer.

Eschasseriaux reported on the letter of the minister plesipotentiary of the Uniter States of America, referred in the ing of the fitting of the Committee of public fafety:

"We have found, faid he, no other mode of announcing his diplomatic char-acter to the Republic, than by means of the frendinip and fraternity which characterizes a free notion. The fall of the tyrant's throne has carried with it the tomains of antient diplomatic forms and the memory of the pompous and ridiculous ceremonies which the pride of courtiers

The Prefident proceeded to remark that he alliance between the two Republics was not mezely a diplomatic transaction, but an alliance of cordial friendfup. He hoped that this alliance would be indiffiluble, and prove the focusee of tyrants, and the protection of the rights of men. He observed how differently an American amballador would have been received in France fix years ago, by the ofurper of the liberty of the people; and how much merit he would have claimed for having gracionfly condefeended to take the United States uncondeteended to take the United States un-der his protection. At this day, it is the fowterign people infelf, reprefented by its faithful deposites, that receives the embalfa-dor with real attachment, while affected formality is at an end. He longed to crown it with the fratemal embrace. "I crown it with the fraternal embrace. Poblic fame has fufficiently informed us of the deplorable feenes which have overwhelmed the city of Genera. That Republic, in whose prosperity we have constantly taken an interst, resulting from long and intimate relations as allies, and the habitual connections of neighbourhood, is delivered up to unheard of calamities, of which it is not possible to farefee the ext the duration, of the confequences. At the moment that we had reason to hope for the moment that we had reason to hope for the return of peace and tranquility, by the e-stablishment of the new order of things, which the Government had solemnly ac-noanced to so; the same as had the Can ton of Zarich, a band of tumelmost menattacked and overthrew by main force, pub lie liberty and perforal fafety; they violated ed private houses, arrested individuals, and dragged them to prifon.

These violences were committed even against the Ministers of religiou, in a man ier fach as feemed to announce the intend ed profeription of religion, in a city hi ed profension et religion, in a city hi-thetto remarked as its great fusporier. DUBLIN, Sept. 3.

The conduct of the impres of Roffis in respect to Great-Boilenin is somewhat extraorditary. For their eighteen months the has amaled her and the allies with magnificent promises of affishence, attended by no performance whatever, and now the feath for their contract of their contra Leith Roads, (whether to act with Britain or not, tuknown) whill at the fame time the publishes a proclamation, probibiting the importation of all English steel and feel and bardware is apparently a hoffile measure. If, indeed, those manufactures were in any flate of perfection in Ruffia we might look upon it as a patriotic pro-tection of their own artizant; her it is well known that though that country, and its neighbour Sweden, produce excellent iron and copper, yet the natives have made very flow advantages to perfection in the mann-facture of them. They are absolutely unfacture of them. They are absolutely un-able to effect the neathers, firength and hearty, in any one species of herdware the British and Insili workmen are capable of giving it. Since, therefore, this, prohibi-tion is not for the purpose of protecting of their own water, it must be meant for the end of migrage the station, of which Ruf-standiscully calls herself an ally yor to give a preference to German artiffs, as a compliment to the emperor, her complice in the robbery of Poland, to induce in the nobbery of Poland, to induce him to be an hearty difficiate in the tripartite plunder of that outbapy country.

The French, without yet having penetrated into Holand, have produced an immessledgere of mitchief. The loss which must easile in confequence of the general insudation, is calculated at many millious; a loss which has connet will not be able a los which that country will not be able to recover for a confiderable number of

It is done, all that the Convention is fittated on a penfiderable, on the thore of that one of orall effect, but will want to the Bay of Bifear, has a good tide harbor, and over a regain.

The re-election of Mr. Smith of SCurves of the property of the propert Pontarabia, lately taken by the French, Spain in that quarter. Barrere already talks of it as a conqueft that will separate Spain from the coalition, and indeed, according to all appearances, Span must either feperate from the coalition, or like fome of the other allies, demand a fobfidy o enable the Catholic King to defend his wn territories.

The language of the French, is very such improved fince the fall of Rober hierre. In the Convention, a member has been apprimented for aking how another parties of the late king, a question which for more than real popths has been held a fossicient answer to the auguments of any man, who voted for Sparing the life of the unfortunite mon-arch. Even in the Jacobin Club, nothing is lifecoed to with approbation, but fenti-ments of moderation and homanity. It remains to be feen whether or not, the improvement of their conduct will keep peace
