"Of the misfortanes of this successful

war, as they are pleafed to call it, the greatest perhaps was, that Ministernalways misjudged the character of the people with whom they had to deal. They had mif-judged the character of the people of A merica, and imagined that they were to be bullied into fuhmifion by ir jury and infult. The people of America were wife enough to fee our folly, and moderate enough not to be fo ready to take offence as we were to offer it. They knew that oderation and firmnels must obtain the advantage over inconfiderate folly, and they were not deceived. He haped the people of Ireland would imitate their exemple, and not faffer themfelves to be it rivated, convinced that the previfuels, pullion or prejudice of any ministry, must rield, in the end to the temperate and quited wither of the nation. Ministers ple of France, and every plan founded on their conception of that character, had failed; they had misjudged the character of the people of Holland, forced them in

AMERICAN CLAIMS AND APPEALS.

[Committeed by a gentleman of variety, just arrived from Brillol.]

The disposition of the cases in which Mr. Barard, agent for the claims and appeals for the United States, is in subflance as follows—In about one hundred and fifty cafes, he has obtained process from the high court of appeals in Great Britain, and has forwarded the fame to the Secretary of State for the United States. In between feventy and eighty other cafes, he finds the information forwarded to him too de-fective to authorize or enable him to a claim or appeal.

Correct lifts of the above two deferring tion of cases, specifying the names of the reflets, Masters and the owners, have been forwarded to the Secretary of about fifty more cafes, where American veffels and their cargoes, after capture and detention for fome time, have been libe-rated, and where of course the demand on the part of American citizens is only for

These cases will be put into a train of arrangement as foon as Mr. Bayann can obtain fufficient information to enable him to form an estimate of the loss fustained by the American citizens; and the British government is to pay what may be thus, agreed upon, as a just and reasonable, al-DWADCE.

In those cases where process iffores particularly where the capture has been made by privateers, great delay will massoila-the the place, for the process must be feat first to the Secretary of Stare in Philadel-thia, by American vess-is (in order to a-vaid a delay with which it would be exposed in British vesfels bound dir-fly to any one of the British illands in the Weft Indies) by him, it would be forwarded to the respective iff ands in which it is to be ferred. Hence if war continues, it must be returned to the United States, and thence forwarded to Mr. Bay-AZD in Lorden. Should the captors on t teturn of this process, before the British High Court of Admiralty, or the Lords of Appeal, refuse appearing to the fuirs, teafonable rime, probably fix months, will be allowed by the Judge, or the Lords, in which if they are fo disposed, the cap may enter their appearance. Should thee fuffer this period to efeare without an appearance, they will be declared, is contempt, and an attached will iffue, which must take the femeratek with the procel before iffed. On the return of the atrachment. if the express fill decline coming before Roffian troops it was fupnofed they were the copy, it is take becomed that the Bri-u much inwards the Turkilli confines unlay, make them a just and reasonable com

NEW YORK, Jone 20.

The Lyden Gazette, files of which have been received by the Editor, up to the 17th of April, contains very little fatelligence, except what has been already Jaid before the public. The details relative to the large tive to the late naval engagement between the French and English, in the Mediterrancan, are exceedingly minute and con-tradictory. The principal weight of evidence, however, is in favor of the repor made to the National Convention, by Marer, on the 2d of April. The Editor of the Leyden Gazette Stephen Luzae) mentions his having received a letter from Leghorn, dated March 20th, which agrees perfectly with Marec's report; and which he therefore, confiders as a complete proof
