

POETRY

THE SCOLD and the PARROT.
The scold that errors in her life,
Who dwells in a nest of strife...

New reputation here in pieces.
Of mothers, daughters, aunts, and aunts;
She rears the parrot's largest nest...

At once the torrent of her words,
As lightning, smokes, dogs, and birds,
All join their forces to confound her...

A parrot is far talking bird,
But prattling waters the world's fire,
She who sits and answers to her...

But if France, during the insensating Rage of Robespierre, calmed some Pled crimes, it was still the first of extrajudicial...

On Saturday and Sunday last this town experienced the festival of the fair...

The large bridge over Savannah river opposite Augusta, was carried away...

Among the victims of the cholera, the woman who died in the arms of her husband...

The fair of those implacable monsters directed with peculiar care against that sex...

On Monday afternoon the ship Ruben, Capt. Adams, from Spain, bringing with him as expected, a Treaty of Commerce...

The public are aware are known to us:—
The common report at Cahus, was that the free navigation of the Mississippi was granted...

At the close of the year, the plague, which he spoke of, the 19th ult., that he had it on board.

It is supposed the Treaty with Algeria contained the same clause, with the Spanish cession...

From the FARMER'S CHRONICLE.
"Is he rich?"
How often this question is asked!

How often this question is asked!
How often do we see young men just entering on the stage of life...

How often do we see the wealthy man spending his property and vending his honor in order to redress a supposed insult?

A rich man is not the better man for his riches; but a rich man is better able to do good on account of his riches...

Once acknowledge that riches cannot make men virtuous; and you make a poor man equal to a rich one with respect to real worth...
