

THE man whose confirmation's strong,
And free from vexing care his mind,
As changing scenes soft along Can in them all fresh pleasure find.

Not only in the tempestuous,
The opening east and following bloom (Urg'd by the sap's ascending flood)
And fruit fair kniting to its root.

Not only when the foaming fields
In all their gales appear,
And the perjurers their bosoms yield
On balyng wings the aspish bear.

In morning fair, in evening mild,
The morning brook and cooling shade,
Birds' airy notes, in concert wild,
And PHILOMELA's rendevous.

Not only in the waving ear,
And branches bending with their load,
Or whilst the pride of the year
Is gathering, and is fairely do'd.

We please'd, in days antemal fees
The shadowy field classified
With various colors, and the trees Stripped and stand forth in naked pride.

Each hollow balf, and holly flower,
The rustling balf, and frosty snow,
The exuberant rime, and scattered hoar,
And icicles which downward grow.

The shining pavement of the flood,
To which the youthful tribes retire,
And game, which the drowsy wood Expects to the fowlers sport.

The greens, which winter bluffs defy Through native strength, or human care,
In hedge, or stock, arrayed
All these—ources of pleasure are.

The sun, which from the northern signs Start'd with infernal heat,
Now, in a milder glory shines,
And every glancing ray is sweet.

The silver moon, and each fair star,
Forth to the bell advantage thine,
And by the risque scene prepare For noble thoughts the expanded mind.

If when the mornings flow'rt rise Can sweetly pass the night away,
In incubation with the wife,
Or conversation with the gay.

And when the winter tedium grows,
And lengthening days cold stronger bring A new increasing spleen flows,
From expectation of the spring.

So he whose faculties are found,
His heart spright, and conscience clean, Apcarely can pass his round
Of life, in every shifting scene.

Not only in his youthful prime,
And whilst the powers continue firm,
But when he feels the effects of time,
And age prepares him for the worm.

Grateful for every blushing gift, Patient in every present ill,
And on whatever ground he's plac'd,
Hope dots with pleasing prospects ill.

And drift in heaven's enchanting love,
From whence that sun will soon appear Whose fruits make sadness (spring about) Dots all his doubts and darkness clear.

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.
Extract from an addit'd delivered in Court by JUDGE RUSH, at Reading, the fourth instant, which addit'd was published at the unanimous request of the Grand Jury of the County of Berks.
Christians are told by our law books, is part of the law of the land; and as such, a Judge may at any time, without suspending a rule from the path of duty, illustrate its precept and enforce its evidences. If not therefore be particularly in cumber on them at this time, when duty is desirably venting itself in ambitious hosts or foes, or openly attacking religion with fallow arguments.
To the native growth of industry among us, it is more than probable, that the publick have been led in error by our administration of a certain great nation in Europe, more especially as a member of the late Convention in that country generally supposed to have been adroit by its unanimous zeal for "The Rights of Man." As willing himself of his literary reputation, has by an attempt to overthrow all religion, indifferently employed to subvert their blasphemous measures to extirpate it. It is really astonishing, Gentlemen, that a man who calls himself a patriot should strive to undermine religion, the only foundation of government and morality. The penetrating genius of孟子, taught him to believe, that the sentiments were different from those of the "Age of Reason." Having compared the effects of religion produced by different religions, and examined them merely in the light of right, what is the decision? "The principles of Christianity," says he, "deeply impress on the heart, would be invariably the most powerful than the false honor of monarchs, the human vices of Republics, or the ferocious fury of despotic Bases." The vast comprehensive mind of the great Bacon, saw the subject in the same point of view. "There never was found," says this profound philosopher, "in any age of the world, either philosophy, or fact, or religion, or law, or discipline which did not highly exalt the publick good, as the christian just."

I have already, gentlemen, confided more than I intended, and shall therefore instantly close with a single observation.

At the great duties of truth and justice, and the great presence of humanity, if the most exalted benovolence and unabashed humanity, if fineness, wisdom, meekness, magnanimity, gentleness, and forgiveness of injuries have a native tendency to improve the heart, and diffuse peace, order, and happiness among mankind, and are freely enjoyed by the Christian religion, as indispensable conditions of obtaining the favor of the Deity ; what most we think of the writer, who has exerted his talents to lure our masters, or exert our obligations to the practice of thefts, beneficent and godlike virtues?

Save us, gracious Heaven, from such patriots and the exertions of their baneful principles among us.

A Correspondent is, who was much esteemed yesterday, at the Hotel de Congress. The Spanish treasury was making up, in reference to the other, as it would require little time, for the vote would be given, and unanimous it was, no vote of the peers and lords were called. In order to save time, an honourable member rose and entertained the audience for an hour and upwards, with an elaborate panegyric on the King of Spain, in which he took occasion to mention, magnanimous and separately eleven times, altho' it was more than eleven years before magnanimity could overake his minister of Peace, glorious name ! thus he confuted all his catholic & dominion's claims in Europe, upset every inglorious port and harbour quite up into the Straight, and when Jack and begone, he was gliding 350 miles down down the long river of the Moors river, trifling, to New Orleans, which was destined to become world wide before the new Louisiana, and then in one minute against stream, and over the Allegany, he is at the port of Congress again, in my opinion this is a lefthanded way of saving time.
