Historical significance (include explanation of themes checked above)  In 1888 Oren Smith bought the rear part of the Wood homestead on Elm St. This homestead was bounded westerly by Massasoit St., w hich had been opened in 1869, and northerly by Arlington St. By 1895 six houses had been built on Smith's land, all two stories in height, and L-shaped. Variety is provided through different projections and trim detailing. Mr. Smith kept title to this house and lot until 1901 when he sold the property to Mary Daniels wife of Joseph, an insurance agent.  This house features decoratively cut shingles in the gables, decorative gable trim, a patterned string course between the clapboarded first story and shingled second story, a bay window with pedimented front and bracketed cornice on the facade, and an entry porch with spindle frieze, turned posts with cutout brackets and a low balustrade.	•		Original use	residence
